London, May 28.

On Saturday arrived a Mail from Holland.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated June 2.

Madrid, May 11.

THE Court continues to take Diverſions at Aranjuez, but 'tis ſaid they will return by the 8th or 9th of next Month. Yeſterday the Dutcheſs d' Oſſuna, Widow of the Duke of that Name, who dyed in France, arrived at Aranjuez from Toledo, and had the Honour to kiſs their Majeſties Hands, and ſhe is expected to Morrow in this City. The Prince of Aſturias has been ſomewhat indiſpoſed, but it went off without any Conſequences. They write from Cadix of the 3d Inſtant, that a Dutch Ship laden with Oyl, which ſailed out of that Port to return Home, was taken 20 Hours after, by the Algerine Pirates, who daily infeſt thoſe Seas.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated June 2.

Warſaw, May 15. Collonel Grudzinſki has ſurprized the Caſtle of Sclytovieski, where there were 240 Saxons, whom he put to the Sword, ſaving none but ſome Polanders that were amongſt them, and who took Service with the Confederates. A Captain and 150 Men have deſerted, and gone over to the Confederates. 'Tis impoſſible to expreſs the Miſery this Kingdom is plung'd into by the Diſorders of this Civil War, the two Parties equally exacting Contributions. The Saxons fortify themſelves as much as they can in the Towns they poſſeſs, and expect Reinforcements of their own Nation. The Ruſſians ruine the Country on the Frontiers, and pull down all the Poſt-houſes that were built from three Mile to three Mile, to take from the Tartars all Shelter and Subſiſtance, and thereby hinder their Incurſions.

Vienna, May 20. The Empreſs intends to go abroad to Morrow, to give Thanks to God in the Church of the Auguſtines, whither the Emperour (who is this Day returned from Laxemburg) will accompany her. A Reſolution is taken to change the Bank into a General Cheſt, the Direction whereof will be under the Orders of his Imperial Majeſty, who will preſide in it, and his Abſence will be ſupplyed by Count Staremburg. 'Tis ſaid that by the Eſtabliſhment of this Bank, his Majeſty is moſt exactly informed of the Amount of his Revenues. We hear from Poland, that above 80000 Polanders have taken up Arms againſt the Saxons. 'Tis adviſed from Hungary, that a Fire has happened at Temiſwar, which has deſtroyed 40 Houſes, and that the Turks are incamped along the Save, to hinder the Imperial Parties from paſſing that River. Prince Eugene and the Commiſſary General, are to go to Hungary by the End of this Month, and the Chancellor at War is already ſet out for Futack.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated June 2.

Augsburg, May 24. On Sunday laſt a Thankſgiving and Rejoycings were celebrated here with great Solemnity, for the Birth of the Archduke. His moſt Serene Highneſs the Biſhop of this City, Sung the Te Deum in the Cathedral Church: The Magiſtracy and thoſe of the Augsburg Confeſſion, did the ſame with Sermons ſuited to the Occaſion, and particular Prayers in all their Churches. Both the one and the other were accompanied with moſt agreeable Muſick, and a triple Diſcharge of the Cannon on the Ramparts, and Vollies of the Muſketry of the Burghers and Garriſon, who were drawn out on that Occaſion. In the Evening both Parties made Bonfires, Illuminations, Conſorts of Muſick, and other Demonſtrations of their great Joy.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated June 2.

Hamburgh, May 29. On Tueſday Evening the King of Denmark came to Altena, and was the next Day welcomed by the Foreign Miniſters, and a Deputation from our Magiſtrates. The ſame Day the Daniſh Reſident acquainted our Magiſtrates, that his Majeſty intending to tarry ſome Time in our Dominions, among the Pleaſure-Houſes of Ham and Horn, it was deſired that ſome of thoſe Houſes and Gardens might be appointed for his Uſe. The Muſcovite Reſident came alſo with the ſame Requeſt, on the Part of the Czar; whereupon the Magiſtrates, and the Laudable College aſſembled at the Council-Houſe, where, after ſome Debates, it was reſolved that the Pleaſure-Houſe and Gardens of the Counſellor Michael Wilkens, and 5 or 7 of the next adjoining to it, ſhould be immediately made ready for the Reception of the King of Denmark; and that of the late Octavio Bellgrave, with 8 near it, for the Czar and his Retinue. This being notified to their Majeſties, the King of Denmark ſet out Yeſterday in the Afternoon from Altena, and aſſoon as his Majeſty approached the Walls of this City, the Cannon were fired, and his Majeſty was met and conducted through the Altena-Gate with all Honours. He was in a Coach drawn by ſix Horſes, and accompanied by the Count de Caſſenberg. Before the Coach rode the Duke of Wirtemberg, and after it came a long Train of Coaches. His Majeſty was ſaluted as he paſſed over the New-Market, by the Head-Watch which was doubled by Grenadiers, and paſſing over the Horſe-Market, went forward directly to the Garden-Houſe that was provided for him. And underſtanding that his Czarian Majeſty was the ſame Afternoon come to Ham, he went immediately to the Houſe where he was, and having complimented the Czar, he returned to his own Quarters, after about half an Hour's Stay. This Morning the Czar came to the King of Denmark's Houſe, and held a long Conference there: And this Afternoon he has paſſed through this City, going to Altena, whence he will return to Night. This Afternoon ſeveral Waggons laden with Calves, Sheep, and other Proviſions, were ſent out, and the Regiment of the King's Guard demand Hay and Oats for their Horſes, ſo that this Interview will be expenſive to us. Major General Meyer is ſent Expreſs to the King of Pruſſia, to know if his Majeſty will come to this Interview alſo, and the Gardens of M. Bahrman is prepared for him. We believe nevertheleſs that the Grand Conference of the Northern Allies will ſtill be held at Lunenburg. Preparations are now making for the March of the Ruſſian and Daniſh Troops out of the Dutchy of Mecklemburg to Copenhagen, in order to the Deſcent on Schonen; and an Agreement is made by Prince Dolhorucky, for 20000 Men of the Czar's Troops, which with 30000 Danes, are to be imployed in that Expedition. The Swediſh Fleet ſtill cruiſes in the Baltick, and 'tis computed that they have taken 80 Ships of all Nations. The Daniſh Frigates that lay near Lubeck, are ſailed to Copenhagen. According to ſome Reports, the Britiſh Ships deſigned for the Baltick, are arrived upon the Coaſts of Norway, and 8 of them have joined the Daniſh Squadron under Vice Admiral Gabel. There is no freſh News from Norway.

From the Hague Courant, dated June 3.

Hague, June 2. Yeſterday Te Deum was ſung in the Chapel of Baron Heems the Imperial Miniſter, for the Birth of the Archduke, and Bread given out to the Poor: At Noon his Excellency treated the Foreign Miniſters and the Lords of the Regency at

at a Magnificent Feast: In the Afternoon Wine of all sorts was let run to the Common People; and in the Evening there were Illuminations and Fire-works. Baron Schuts, the Heer van Lescourt, and other Lords going to Hanover, are arrived here from England.
